

Together We Elevate Corporate Citizenship

What is Sustainability?

Sustainability can be defined as the balancing of profit, environment, and societal needs.

Why Should Organizations Address Sustainability?

- Those companies with a track record of good corporate citizenship are more likely to be granted use of society's resources.
- Many multi-national corporations and other large companies are beginning to expect their supply chain to operate in a sustainable manner.
- Often sustainability measures result in savings through lower costs and/or revenue increases through higher product yield.

Our consultants have extensive industry experience in risk management of sustainability matters. Our team helps organizations focus their resources on their most important sustainability issues, yielding bottom line impact.

What is Sustainability Consulting at vPSI Group?

vPSI offers a range of sustainability services from starting the journey to enhancing performance. Our fit-for-purpose approach focuses on your needs as we develop and implement solutions together that meet your objectives. Small to medium sized businesses who want to improve their sustainability efforts often don't know where to start. vPSI Group can help these organizations evaluate the environmental footprint and social impact of their organization, especially where these are important to customers. Once footprint and impacts have been defined, our consultants will help identify how to improve or mitigate the organization's impact, as well as how to measure and report on changes.
